

CONVERTING HOME VIDEOS (VHS TAPES) TO A DVD with Judy McCleery of Vivid Visions Photo-Graphics

Most of us have old VHS home videos that have been collecting dust in the back of the closet for years. Converting home videos to DVD is a great way to preserve, share, and enhance those old tapes that may be aging and degrading, and "do it yourself" tape to DVD conversion can be easy and affordable. VHS video is inconvenient in today's world as digital technology rapidly takes over. You can certainly find a company that will make this conversion for you, but these transfers can get expensive if you have several VHS tapes to convert.

Copying them to a DVD is not that difficult, and our instructor will guide you through the process. Participants will have one VHS tape converted to a DVD to take home with them. Please bring a homemade VHS tape with you to the program. Tapes will be left with the instructor and participants will be notified in a week or so when the DVD is ready as it is a rather lengthy process.
